

Dereham Heritage Trust

From academic beginnings in 1953, the Dereham Heritage Trust has evolved into an enthusiastic group of people with a shared interest in the history of Dereham and the surrounding areas.

Town Archive

The archive and collection of the Trust are an important resource for the study of local history. Material has been collected from the Dereham area since 1953 when the Trust was founded.

Museum

Displays of items from the collection can be seen in Bishop Bonner's Cottage Museum. Entry usually costs £3 but is free for members of the Trust.

Newsletters

Members receive a quarterly newsletter, produced by the Trust, containing summaries of our monthly talks, articles about the history of the area, as well as news about the Trust.

Talks Programme

The Trust holds monthly meetings through the year, with expert speakers giving talks ranging widely from prehistory to the 21st century, in Dereham and the rest of Norfolk, including life, work, prominent personalities, and the development of the town through the years.

Volunteering

Would you like to become a member of our volunteer team working with historic artefacts and documents? Or can we tempt you to experience 'hands-on' running of a museum?

Volunteering in the Museum

We are always looking for people to join our group of volunteers who staff the museum on a rota basis. You would decide what time you could give to us - it could be as little as one session a month if that's all the time you have to spare. You will be trained on site and do not need to be a member of the Dereham Heritage Trust. All we ask is that you are over 16; there is no upper age limit.

Volunteering in the Dereham Archive

Our archive is located in the Town Council offices, and we are working hard to get it ready to open to researchers and the public who wish to use it. For the time being, this complex task can be undertaken only by those already involved, but once that is done, we may well be seeking volunteers to work to improve its accessibility.

If you are interested in helping us, please contact Ken Hawkins for an informal chat via email ken-hawkins@tiscali.co.uk or phone on 01362 691455.

Bishop Bonner's Cottage Museum

This delightful cottage dating from the 17th century is the oldest domestic building in the market town of Dereham. It houses displays of local history and the archaeology of the surrounding area in the Breckland and region of central Norfolk.

The Museum, situated in St Withburga Lane, Dereham, next to the parish church, is normally open from May to the end of September. For current opening times, visit www.derehamheritagetrust.org.uk

Due to the age and Grade II status of the building, wheelchair access is restricted to two ground floor rooms only. For further information regarding the Museum's displays and history, please visit our website, or scan the QR code below.

History of the Cottage

Virtually untouched by the 21st century, this beautiful timber-framed, thatched building is particularly noted for its unusual pargeting. Probably the oldest surviving domestic building in Dereham, it was originally three cottages built at different times during the 1600s. Why there is '1502' in Roman numerals over the door and on the gable is a great mystery.

It is the only thatched building in Dereham to have survived the great fire of 1679. With its sloping ceilings, tiny rooms, twisting staircases and wooden beams, it is easy to imagine how the many previous inhabitants lived here in the past.

The Cottage itself has a colourful history. It takes its name from Bishop Bonner, Rector of the neighbouring St Nicholas' Church during the 1530s. In his role as Bishop of London during the reign of Queen Mary, he was responsible for the death of many Protestants burned at the stake. He was known as 'Bloody Bonner' for good reason.

More than 400 years later, war veteran 'One-armed Jack' was the last resident, and he was something of a local legend, remembered by some of the town's older community.

In 1963, Dereham Town Council became responsible for the upkeep of the Grade II listed building, and the Dereham Heritage Trust established the town Museum in the cottage. For over 50 years it has been run entirely by volunteers. It is an Arts Council Accredited museum.
